

THE Easter season was not as profitable of engagement announcements as it usually is. These messages from Cupid are beginning to come now, as the bridal month of June is approaching.

Miss Juliette Williams, daughter of Col. and Mrs. John R. Williams, and Mr. Joseph Lettier, who were the first to make known their approaching nuptials, have been the fete of the fete during the past ten days. More is threatened to follow in a short time.

The engagement of Miss Lucretia Wolcott Dodge to Lieut. Rodman Butler, Sixth Cavalry, U. S. A., and that of Miss Helen Durant Church to Mr. Alexander Yearly, third, of Baltimore, are the new announcements for last week. There are no dates for the weddings of either pair. It is supposed they will come off during the summer.

According to the custom, prevailing more and more each year, the wedding follows soon after the announcement of the engagement. As the time approaches for the departures of families for their summer homes, or for their trips abroad, these wedding plans mature. According to the large number of debutantes of the past season and the season before, a perfect avalanche of engagements might be expected.

The efforts for charity are about expended. Society is now turning its thoughts to the summer plans, if they have not already been made. There will be many departures for Europe during the coming week, and many more for the numerous country homes about Washington, which every year are increasing in number and beauty, thereby inducing many of the gay people who control the social seasons here to remain hereabouts until midsummer.

The larger portion of the diplomatic corps thinks it is not summer unless there is a trip "home" for them. Even though it is but for a few weeks at the beginning, or a few weeks at the close of the hot season, they make flying visits over, many remaining in their foreign homes from early summer until late fall and missing the joy of the gay seasons at our summer resorts.

This is most fascinating to foreigners, who have not really seen America without a season at Newport, Bar Harbor, Manchester-by-the-Sea, or Atlantic City, with a peep at Bretton Woods and the Berkshire Hills, the loveliest spot of all in the fall season.

A distinct innovation, and at the same time revelation, to the members of the corps and the wives who will accompany their husbands will be the proposed visit to the Chicago convention.

Among those who have announced their intention of going are the Baroness des Planches, wife of the Italian Ambassador; Mme. Jussendard, wife of the French Ambassador; and Senora Lafaur, wife of the Minister from Uruguay.

The Baroness von Sternburg, wife of the German Ambassador, will sail with the Ambassador about the middle of this month for their annual visit to their home in Saxony. It has been their custom, many summers, to return here in August and remain for the rest of the summer at Lenox, in the Berkshires. This year their plans are not yet matured.

The past week has been quite as gay as the proverbial Easter week. Society sacrificed itself to charity quite as liberally. There were far more teas and bridge parties than last week. In fact, there was scarcely a day when there were not several, as rival attractions to both young and otherwise.

Garden parties are coming into the limelight. It is to this end, in beautiful Washington, that the newer and modern houses are being built with some sort of garden, however small, where a tea table, with borders of growing flowers, may be laid, and at least a small number of guests may be congregated about it.

Wherever it is possible, the wide porch forms a particular feature of such a scene. The porch, and back porch at that, is becoming inevitable in these days of "fresh air treatment."

Almost invariably the porches are being made the sleeping apartments of the family, as in the case of Prof. and Mrs. Walcott, the children on the highest story, the older people on the lower stories, for every porch in this century has the second or third story attached.

Truly the porch and garden days are fast approaching. Nowhere are they more alluring than in the Nation's Capital, largely for the brilliant companies they attract.

Mrs. Roosevelt sets the example on the historic south porch of the White House, where she spends a great deal of her time in spring and fall, and which is fitted with all the comforts possible for the latter-day porch. It is here she pours tea every afternoon to the brains, beauty, diplomacy, and statesmanship of the nation. These may be only in small companies each afternoon, but they are never missing.

Washington is to have another Country Club for social and recreation purposes. It is to be located on the Old Dominion Railway, in the vicinity of Great Falls, and near the farm of Dr. Rixey. There will be golf links, tennis courts, and everything which goes to make one happy in the summer season.

Dr. J. Taber Johnson has presided over the meetings held thus far. At the last meeting it was decided to begin work at once on a temporary club-house and the golf links.

Six thousand dollars have already been subscribed. There will be stock to the value of $10,000.

Signor Montagna, formerly the counsel- or of the Italian Embassy in this city, who has arrived in Italy, has been appointed to the political division of the foreign office in Rome. It is rumored he will be appointed to the Italian Embassy in London before long.

Signor Montagna was one of the popu-

ENGAGEMENTS—WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Howell Dodge announce the engagement of their daughter, Lucretia Wolcott Dodge, to Lieut. Rodman Butler, of the Sixth Cavalry, U. S. A., son of Gen. John Butler, retired, of the Ordnance Corps.

Miss Dodge is with her parents and sister at Mount Vernon-on-the-Potomac. There they spend a portion of each spring and fall. No date is announced for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Church announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Durant Church, to Mr. Alexander Yearly, third, of Baltimore. No date is set for the wedding.

Miss Church is a debutante of the past season, and is quite young. She was a schoolmate and a particularly intimate friend of Miss Ethel Roosevelt in the National Cathedral School for Girls, where Miss Church graduated last spring.

May weddings, although yet small in number, will be especially interesting. That of Miss Elizabeth Oliver, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, to Mr. Frederick K. Stevens, of New York, will take place on May 26. It will be a strictly family affair.

The ceremony will be performed in the home of Gen. and Mrs. Oliver, on N street. The company will be limited to relatives within the "first cousin" circle, no one further removed being asked.

Miss Oliver is a sister of Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., and has spent much time in England with her sister when Mr. Choate was first secretary of the United States legation during his father's regime as ambassador at that post. She is also a granddaughter of the late Gen. John F. Rathbone, of Lenox, Mass.

Miss Oliver has her wedding gown chosen, which is said to be an heirloom of rare lace over heavy satin, with a veil of the same lace.

Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, of St. John's Church, will officiate.

Mr. Stevens is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Stevens, of Lawrence, L. I., and a brother of Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg.

The wedding of Miss Edith Sanger, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Joseph P. Sanger, and Mr. Mandeville Carlisle, son of the late Mr. Calderon Carlisle, of which invitations are already out, will take place on the day after the Oliver-Stevens wedding, May 27, at noon.

The ceremony will be performed in St. John's Church, by Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector, and will be witnessed only by the families and the near relatives. A reception and breakfast in the home of Gen. and Mrs. Sanger will follow.

Miss Sanger will have for her attendants Miss Polly Randolph, as maid of honor; Miss Edith Crocker, fiancée of Mr. Prentice Sanger; Miss Mary Carlisle, sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Miss Grace McCall, bridesmaid. Mr. Walter Howe will be the best man, and the ushers will be Mr. Reginald Huldecker and Lieut. Edward McCauley, both of this city; Mr. Dudley Blossom, Mr. Thomas Cheney, Mr. George Reynolds, Mr. Arthur Allen, Mr. Allen Richardson, Mr. Twining, and Mr. George Lyon, all from out of town.

The wedding is announced of Mr. Colon M. Omohundro, formerly of this city, now of Dover, N. J., and Miss Inez Pique. The ceremony was performed on Easter Sunday. Their future home will be in Dover.

Mrs. Charles A. Thompson announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Laura H. Thompson, to Lieut. Thomas A. Kearney, U. S. N. The wedding will take place in the near future.

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. Dux, when their daughter Mollie and Mr. J. W. Wolfert were married by the Rev. Louis Stern, of the Eighth Street Temple. The bride was attired in a white broadcloth gown, and carried a bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley. Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Sol Peyser, of Newport.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Ellis, near Herndon, Va., their daughter, Miss Grace Kerfoot, became the bride of Mr. Walter Ker Handy, of Washington, last week.

Miss Kerfoot's only attendant was Miss Margaret Funnell Handy, sister of the groom. Mr. Algernon Lee Handy was best man for his brother. The two little sisters of the bride, Annie and Elizabeth Ellis, and little Margaret Smilie Handy, niece of the groom, held the ribbons which formed the aisle.

The bride wore a traveling suit of blue with hat to match and a pin of sapphires and pearls, the gift of the groom. Her maid of honor, Miss Handy, wore a gown of cream-colored silk, hat of burnt straw, trimmed with lilies and cream roses. Both the bride and Miss Handy carried white lilies.

Back of the altar were banked palms, white lilies, and lilies of the valley from the floor to the ceiling. The entire first floor and verandas were also profusely decorated with palms and the same blossoms.

The wedding breakfast was served on the veranda, which was inclosed by masses of white lilacs, dogwood, and evergreens. The tables were decorated with white roses.

The bride is the great-granddaughter of Col. William Slaughter, of Virginia. Mr. Handy is the son of Maj. F. A. G. Handy, who for many years was a well-known newspaper correspondent.

After an extended trip North, Mr. and Mrs. Handy will reside in Washington until the completion of their new home at Creston, Va.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the Vice President, will entertain the Congressional Club at a 5-o'clock tea next Friday afternoon.

The ladies of the Congressional Club will hold a business meeting next Wednesday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, in the parlors of the Tea Cup Inn, in H street.

Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Wilder and Mr. Augustus G. Heaton, 1615 Seventeenth street northwest, entertained friends at a musical Wednesday evening. The occasion was the wedding anniversary of the professor and Mrs. Wilder and the birthday of Mr. Heaton.

Decorations of flowers and palms were everywhere throughout the house. The drawing-room, Moorish in design, furnished in flairs of the Alhambra in Spain, was decorated with azaleas. The gothic dining-room was a profusion of hydrangeas, and the hall and other rooms were in roses, carnations, and potted plants.

The guests occupied the studio during the musical numbers. Mr. Arthur Howland, the English tenor singer, gave several vocal numbers, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Wilder. Miss Johnson and several other young girls from the Bristol School contributed songs and piano solos.

Miss Murray, of the Columbia School of Music, sang several Scotch songs. Mrs. Rachel Tougate Beck and Mr. Heaton recited original poems.

At the close of the programme refreshments were served, and the party ended with a Virginia reel.
